On view for the summer in the Little Gallery of The Cleveland Museum of Art is an exceptional display entitled MONUMENTAL SCULPTURE IN MINIATURE. The exhibition contains 14 minute sculptures contrasted with enlarged photographs of these same objects. Through the pictures the gallery visitor can easily perceive the monumental quality often concealed in miniature sculptures. The smallest object in the exhibit is an Egyptian Carnelian frog which is less than 1/2 inch long and 3/16 of an inch high. A walrus ivory relief of Christ in Glory, six inches long, is illustrated by a 6 foot photograph mural.

The show, installed by William E. Ward, includes Egyptain, Chinese, Byzantine, German, Peruvian, Mexican, Flemish, Italian, Greek and Austrian pieces.
